

Collaboration in the Cloud: Grow your business and reduce costs

In today's fast paced world, effective communication and collaboration is critical. Organizations need solutions that can drive innovation, simplify and improve daily business interactions with customers, partners and colleagues. Many are looking to the cloud to find those solutions.

Please join Sean as he discusses how collaboration, communication, content and communities come together naturally in the cloud. Hear how you can easily begin to transform your business regardless of your current environment.

SPEAKER:

Sean Poulley

Vice President, Online Collaboration Services

June 24, 2010

11 am EST

